LEGEND OF THE DOGWOOD TREE

Richie T. Weikel

Oft have we heard at our mother's knee
The legend of the dogwood tree,
How its fragile trunk once strong and grand
Grew tall as the oak in the Holy Land.

From its sturdy timber the cross was made
To crucify, shame and degrade
Our Lord, who, sensing its humility
As He hung suspended for all to see
Murmured, "Tis not your fault I now hang here.
And because I know you are sincere
As you tremble for My earthly pain,
This hour do I promise never again
Will you be the means of pain and loss
To earthly beings formed as a cross."

"From now henceforth do I decree
That slender, twisted and bent you'll be.
That your flowers enrich the countryside;
The fame of their beauty spread far and wide,
But, their petals soft as the purest floss
Will ever take the form of a cross,
On whose outer edge as now I've bled
Will appear brown nail prints stained with red.
In each flower center a crown of thorns
The like of which My head adorns
That they who look deeper than beauty may see
And remember this day on Calvary."

DEDICATION

The editorial staff dedicates the 1953 Echo to Hugh F. Davis, President of the Board of Trustees of the Woodville Independent School District. Mr. Davis is an honored citizen of the community and a faithful friend to the cause of education. His sense of justice and fair play, his loyalty, and his devotion to the welfare of the Woodville schools for more than twenty years endear him to pupils and faculty members alike.
